As the Journal Publisher and Majority Owner, my opinion often takes a provocative tone. The Journal-Week-in-Review articles take a position that provokes discussion.

Sometimes the opinion I write about does not necessarily reflect my own personal view. Also, my take on things during an interview could show up in the article, when the interview should only be about those interviewed.

Interviews are conducted like Larry-King-feel-good articles. Unless you see “quotes”, then everything is paraphrased to the best of my ability.
